

ABSTRACT

A printer driver is determined according to a received printer identification. A content type that identifies the printer driver and the capabilities of the printer driver is then generated and returned.